Dear Consultee

Consultation on a proposal to alter the current provision of the primary behaviour support service in the St Albans area.

We are consulting you on the proposal which will require:

The closure of the Primary Support Base at Bowmansgreen Primary School, Telford Road, London Colney, St Albans Hertfordshire, AL2 1PH; and

The commissioning of a new service for the area, including support to mainstream schools and short stay provision, from the Links Academy, Woollam Crescent, St Albans, Hertfordshire, AL3 6EJ.

When would this happen?

It is proposed that the PSB would close on 24 July 2019. A new way of delivering the service will start at the beginning of the Autumn term in Sept 2019.

Why is this being proposed?

Hertfordshire's strategy to improve the behaviour and achievement of primary pupils with emotional and behavioural needs in mainstream schools is met through a range of services. They include advice and outreach to support children in mainstream schools; a small number of short term places and 6th day provision for permanently excluded children; and where necessary, longer term places for pupils with particularly significant and complex emotional and behavioural needs. In some areas these services are provided by primary support bases and this has been the case, to date, in the St Albans area.

The primary support base in Bowmansgreen Primary School is no longer able to meet the needs of the area. The school, the county council and local headteachers consider that the closure of the base at Bowmansgreen Primary School and the recommissioning of new services would have a positive impact for pupils and schools in the area, with the opportunity of providing enhanced education opportunities and improved facilities. It is proposed to commission a range of outreach services, advice and support and a small number of pupil places available for in reach work from the Links Academy. The Links Academy is rated by Ofsted as Good. It is designated as a provider for children of all ages, although to date it has not been commissioned to provide on-site services for primary age pupils. New separate accommodation would be provided on its site for short stay places; 6th day, and other longer term provision required, with designated outside space, offices and meeting rooms as well as class bases.

What does this mean for schools in the area and any pupils currently attending the base?

Outreach services to local schools will continue to be available via the Links Academy, with a clear specification of requirements developed in line with the Herts Behaviour Strategy and views/needs of local stakeholders. It will be reviewed and monitored by both the St Albans Primary Board (consisting of local primary headteachers, the Education Support Centre head, and the local authority) as well as centrally by the Local Authority.

There are currently two pupils with an Education Health Care Plan at the base, one of whom is due to move to specialist provision in Sept 2018. Should any pupils remain at the base at the point of change, their needs will be assessed and the Links Academy will continue to provide for them.

What would happen to staff?

The base posts will be at risk of staffing reductions however all reasonable efforts will be made to minimise this risk through exploring redeployment opportunities.
