

Differentiating the curriculum for pupils who have Down Syndrome or for pupils with general learning difficulties

This course is for professionals responsible for curriculum planning and/or working with pupils with Down Syndrome or with general learning difficulties

- The course will look at factors affecting learning in children with Down Syndrome or general learning difficulties and how to support them when differentiating the curriculum
- There will be opportunity to discuss and explore best practice and look at differentiation in relation to the child/ren you are working with

NB: there is some overlap between the content of this course and the Down Syndrome Education Training Course starting on 11th Sept. It wouldn't be advised to attend both courses.
